

CASE STUDY

SMALL LOCAL BUILD

This truly unique project was of significant size and scale of which we took the leading role in terms of design and development. The end results were extremely satisfying for both us as designers/manufacturers as well as our client and it's end users.

Due to our experience and expertise in both design engineering and on site build practicality we managed to deliver a truly impressive and quality engineered roof timber solution for our customer in a professional manor on time and within budget with very limited working drawings and details to work from with a consistent on site presence in terms of site surveys/measures.
